PEER NETWORKS FOR INNOVATORS

T.M.

An opportunity to meet with other managers who have... "Found A Better Way"

THE RESOURCE Since 1977 Ketchum Associates, Inc. has developed and maintained Networks for managers of workplace innovations. Currently, over 90 managers from 35 companies at 49 sites participate. Senior managers, plant managers, human resource managers/internal consultants, and middle managers each have a Network. The Networks deliver mutual support, insight, and discovery of resources suited for state-of-the-art organizations.

WHO INNOVATES Managers who are not content with their organization's performance and who feel that, "there must be a better way," begin to innovate. Some undertake to change an existing organization. Others begin innovating when a new organization and facility is created. Some innovate with a labor union; others, where no labor union is present.

THE INNOVATIONS Network member organizations encompass a broad range of technologies and products. Innovations are known by a variety of names, including, Participative Management, Quality of Work Life, Employee Involvement, Team Concept, Socio-technical Design, and High Performance Systems. They are from one to sixteen years old. The most advanced feature flatter, leaner organizations with work organized around self-regulating teams and alternative compensation systems. Traditional, functional boundaries are altered. Roles from site manager to team leader are redefined.

MEMBERSHIP ASSETS Managers establish the agenda and rely on each other as the primary resource. They meet to share the latest developments concerning issues such as Change Strategy, Management's Changing Role, Work Group Design/Development, Compensation/Pay for Learning, Diffusion, Working with Unions, and Maintaining the Innovation. These discussions are coupled with reviews of relevant Socio-technical Systems' theories and principles. Some Networks visit innovative plants; others seek outside speakers. Meeting deliberations and rosters are confidential. Between meetings, members maintain contact with phone calls and written material, and exchange visits.

WHO CAN JOIN If you are a manager associated with an innovation and willing to learn and contribute through participation, call or write for further information.

ALAN D. KETCHUM, KETCHUM ASSOCIATES, INC., 1343 JAMAICA COURT, JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA 32216. PHONE 904-725-3911.

FEES/EXPENSES Meetings are arranged and coordinated by Ketchum Associates. Members pay an annual fee and are responsible for travel and lodging expense. Meetings are held twice yearly. Each lasts two days. Additional resources are secured at the direction of members, the costs shared by the membership.

"Learning from developing, maintaining, and diffusing PRODUCTIVITY SUCCESSES"

THE FIRM In addition to Networks, Ketchum Associates, Inc. offers a broad range of consulting services for new and existing facilities whether the products are aircraft engines, chemicals, food products, information, computer chips, banking services, or insurance. Since 1976 Ketchum Associates has assisted managers in preparing, establishing, and controlling state-of-the-art work and organization designs using participation and Socio-technical Systems' theories and principles. Projects are known by names such as Socio-technical Design, Quality of Work Life, High Performance Systems, Team Design, Employee Involvement, and Participative Management.

Working in settings with and without labor unions, Ketchum Associates assists with tasks such as environmental scanning, planning a change process, new plant design and start-up, redesign of an existing organization, technical analysis, preparing managers and union leadership for change, audits of an organization's design, training internal consultants, upgrading technology without dehumanizing work, long range planning, team building, analysis for establishment of compensation systems, self-regulating team design, and boundary management.
